Juror PAMELA SALISBURY is the Owner/Director of Pamela Salisbury Gallery in Hudson, New York, which opened March 2020. The gallery shows contemporary painting, sculpture, and photography by emerging, mid-career, and highly established artists. The 2023 season will include exhibitions by over one dozen artists, including Barbara Takenaga, James Siena, Elliott Green, Lisa Corinne Davis, and Judy Pfaff. The exhibition space includes two floors on Warren Street, a sculpture courtyard, and a historic four story Carriage House. Before opening the gallery, Pamela worked at The Olana State Historic Site in Hudson, NY, and enjoyed a long tenure at the New York Studio School (Eighth Street, NY) where she was responsible for the Main Gallery Exhibitions, related programming, and the Evening Lecture Series. Her experience with prominent New York galleries includes the Virginia Zabriskie Gallery, NY, and the McKee Gallery, NY.

The members of Blue Mountain Gallery see their outreach and commitment to an ever-expanding community of artists as fundamental to their overall mission. The gallery sponsors juried exhibitions and maintains a calendar of lectures and panels to complement a schedule of one-person shows at its Chelsea location. Blue Mountain Gallery is an artists' cooperative, founded in 1980.
